

Barack Obama disappointed me. I voted for Obama in the Indiana Democratic primary. But, now, I understand that he is a hypocrite.

On a national television show, Obama told opponents not to criticize his wife when she says something in a speech that should be challenged or criticized. But, Obama doesn't try to stop others, including his staff, when they challenge or criticize something that Hillary Clinton's husband says when he speaks in support of his spouse.

Obama is a hypocrite. Obama has a double standard. I now realize that Obama speaks from both sides of his mouth, speaks with a forked tongue, and is a double minded man.

In the Bible, Saint James wrote that "a double minded man is unstable in all things". The American people should not put a double minded and unstable man in the White House.

I voted for Obama in the spring. I will not make the same mistake in the fall.
